

MODULAR COSMETIC CONTAINER

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- 5 A modular cosmetic container comprises an outer case and an inner case which is pivotally disposed in a receiving space of the outer case and is provided with a containing space for placing cosmetic products. The upper surface of the outer case is a flat surface without any protrusion. An extending wall extending downwardly along the lateral side of the outer case forms a recess for retaining the upper wall of another
- 10 outer case. Hence, a plurality of the modular cosmetic containers can be stacked and jointed together in the manner of lateral holdfast, such that the upper wall of one outer case is snugly fitted into the recess defined by the extending wall of another outer case.
